Frankiewicz, Schulz address mayoral issues

BY DENA BISNETTE

At a Chamber of Commerce-sponsored forum Wednesday night, two Bay St. Louis mayoral candidates addressed issues ranging from utilities to the need for a community center.

Victor Frankiewicz and Kelvin J. Schulz answered questions from panelists Dick Thomas, Kathy Fernandez and George Paul and from program moderator John Scaffidi in the absence of incumbent Mayor Larry Bennett.

Bennett, who had been scheduled to participate, said Friday that he was unable to attend the forum because he "had been called out on an emergency."

Each candidate gave a brief opening statement about his qualifications and plans if elected.

Schulz, a real estate broker and owner of Big E. Grocery Store, said he plans to start a positive street repair and drainage program.

He also cited needs for more efficient spending of tax dollars, repair of the city's utility system and correction of zoning problems. He stressed a need for citizens to cooperate with city government.

"We have a bunch of problems in Bay St. Louis. They're not big ones. They're small, but we need energy to solve them," Schulz said.

The candidate added that Bay St. Louis remains a growing city and that future problems can be avoided through anticipation of growth.

Frankiewicz, an employee of Martin Marietta, compared Bay St. Louis to other parts of the country.

"We haven't yet made all the mistakes the other parts of the country have made. We need to grow here, but not to lose the quality of life," he said.

He said Bay St. Louis also has "opportunity that hasn't been fully realized because we haven't yet had strong management in the mayor's office." He called for a "strong, outgoing administration" and more efficient utilization of the mayor-council form of government.

The questions the candidates were asked by the panel were divided into several broad categories, including public works, beachfront development, community development, city growth and form of government.

In the form of government category, both candidates were asked if they felt the mayor-council form of government, which began in Bay St. Louis eight years ago, is working properly.

Frankiewicz said he is not fully satisfied with the mayor-council system. "It hasn't reached its full potential," he said.

He explained that he sees the system as being based on a division of power with the council as legislative body and the mayor carrying out the day-to-day activities of the city.

"That division hasn't been clearly respected. I feel that the council is very much involved in the day-to-day aspects of operating the city and that the mayor is not in it enough," Frankiewicz said.

Schulz agreed, saying he feels the system has had uneven results. "Some areas run very efficiently, but other so not," he commented.

He added that he feels that Bay St. Louis needs a strong mayor.

Frankiewicz said he feels the city's most needed public improvement is sewerage in the annexed areas, but Schulz disagreed, saying the first thing needed is drainage work in preparation for street repair. Schulz said repair of gas lines is a second priority.

Both candidates agreed that Bay St. Louis needs some type of community center for public events. Frankiewicz favored making facilities like the Bay High gymnasium available to the public, but Schulz did not specify how such a facility should be provided.

On zoning, Frankiewicz said he felt the city is adequately zoned to provide for both commercial and residential growth, but said he feels an effort should be made to keep heavy industries from locating inside the city limits.

Instead, he feels heavy industries should be encouraged to locate at Port Bienville or Stennis Airport.

Schulz agreed with Frankiewicz's stipulations concerning heavy industry, but said he feels that existing commercial zoning is unbalanced. He said he would prefer commercial zoning "in areas where it has been historically, like

Senner signs with Dallas

SCOTT SENNER

Scott Senner of Southeastern Louisiana University in Hammond, a 1980 graduate of St. Stanislaus High School in Bay St. Louis, has signed with the Dallas Cowboys as a free-agent punter.

Senner was second in the nation in Division I-AA of National Collegiate Athletic Association with an average of 43.3 yards per try during the 1984 season at Southeastern.

That average also gave him a number one ranking among Louisiana college punters last year.

Senner was selected to the first team, Gulf Star Conference at the end of his 1984 season at Southeastern, first-team All-Louisiana, and third team Associated Press All-American for Division I-AA.

Senner played fullback and punter at Pearl River Junior College in Poplarville during the 1982 and 1983 seasons.

He was named all-conference in the Pascagoula River Conference during his senior year at St. Stanislaus, and was selected to play with the South Mississippi High School All-Stars that year.

Senner is son of Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Senner of New Orleans.

He will report for rookie orientation in Dallas May 15, with rookie camp to follow July 14.

Senner reported Friday Danny White will no longer serve as the number one Cowboy punt specialist. He also noted the Cowboys did not draft a punter in last week's selecting conducted out of New York.

He said Dallas is expected to select its punters from among free agents for the 1985 season.

Zoning board acts on three requests

BY DENA BISNETTE

The Waveland Planning and Zoning Board took action Monday on three variances that will be presented to the board of aldermen next week.

The board decided to recommend that the aldermen approve two of the requested variances and deny a third.

Recommended for approval is a variance requested by Charles Johnson, who owns a warehouse complex on US-90. Johnson asked to be permitted to erect a seven-foot-high fence around his property for security reasons, which would require a one-foot variance from the city's limit of six feet.

The board decided that the variance should be recommended because the six-foot fence requirement applies only to residential property.

In addition, Chairman Charles Dickson said the board's recommendation should include provisions allowing the use of barbed wire on top of the fence if zoning ordinances do not already allow it.

Also to be recommended for approval is a side yard variance requested by Mr. and Mrs. Gregory Fuchich Sr., who plan to construct a residence on Wood Street. If granted, the variance would allow

Supervisors to name successor for Necaise

BY DENA BISNETTE

The Hancock County Board of Supervisors must appoint a temporary successor for resigning Justice Court Judge Bruce Necaise.

A special election to fill the post can not be held until November, according to board attorney Walter Gex III.

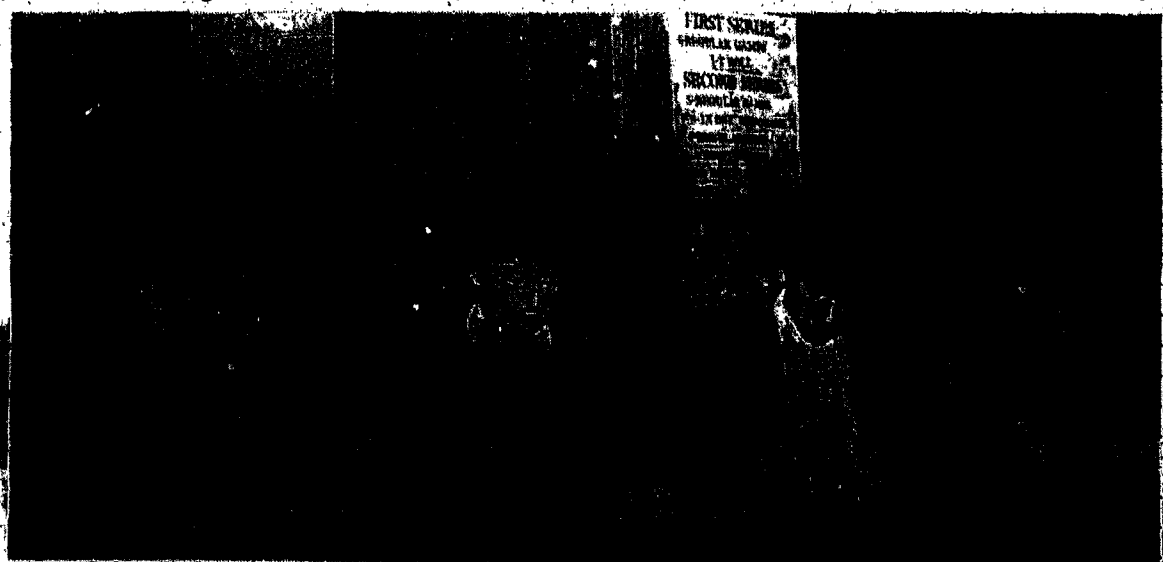

Gex said he contacted the state attorney general's office Friday to obtain information on the correct procedure for replacing Necaise, whose resignation becomes effective June 1.

Necaise's resignation was approved by the board on Wednesday. His letter stated that he was resigning due to circumstances which made it impossible to fulfill his duties as district one judge.

At that time, the board asked Gex to look into the correct procedure for filling the upcoming vacancy.

Gex said he plans to report his findings to the supervisors on Monday.

Since its introduction in 1979, the Falcon has made its mark as a true multirole fighter—proving itself as a highly maneuverable aircraft in air-to-air combat, and earning its place as one of the world's best precision tactical bombers.

Now serving at U.S. Air Force bases in the United States, Germany, Korea and Spain, the Falcon is also on duty with the air forces of Belgium, Denmark, the Netherlands, Norway, Israel, Egypt, Pakistan and Venezuela.

It can fly faster than Mach 2, higher than 50,000 feet, and can climb more than 30,000 feet per minute. The aircraft is 49 feet 6 inches long, 16 feet 8 inches high, has a wingspan of 31 feet, and weighs 16,500 pounds including pilot, oil, two missiles and a full load of 20mm ammunition.

The F-16 armament includes a fuselage-mounted multibarrel 20mm cannon, and an air-to-air missile mounted on each wingtip. Additional weapons of various types (up to 15,000 pounds) can be carried on pylons mounted under the wings and on the fuselage centerline.

ASCS Report

On April 1, USDA reduced the support price for milk from $12.60 to $12.10 per hundredweight, according to Franklin A. Gennin, county executive director of the Pearl River-Hancock County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service.

The support price was reduced under provisions of the Dairy and Tobacco Adjustment Act of 1983, and the reduction coincides with the termination of the $.50 per hundredweight deduction required by the 1983 Act.

The lower price support is aimed at reducing excessive dairy supplies, bringing supply and demand into a better balance, and lowering program costs.

Even with the reduced support price, the department forecasts net price support purchases by the Commodity Credit Corporation for the next 12 months at 9.1 billion pounds milk equivalent.

Gennin said the $12.10 price could remain in effect until September 30, 1985. However, the Dairy and Tobacco Adjustment Act of 1983 authorizes an additional adjustment in the level of price support on July 1, 1985, depending on estimated price support purchases by CCC for the 12-month period beginning on that date.

The new support price is for manufacturing milk, with a milkfat content of 3.67 percent, and compares with $11.82 per hundredweight for milk with a milkfat content of 3.5 percent.

Under the dairy price support program, a price is set for manufacturing grade milk. Most fluid grade milk prices are based on prices paid for manufacturing grade milk, in the Minnesota-Wisconsin milk producing area.

Consequently, decreases in the support price will be eventually reflected in lower fluid milk prices at the grocery store as well as for most other dairy products, such as cheese and ice cream.

The program authorizes the CCC to purchase butter, cheese and non-fat dry milk at announced prices to enable manufacturing plants, on the average, to pay farmers an amount equal to the support price.

"From the standpoint of the price support program, the milk surplus is the difference between milk marketings and commercial sales."

The ASCS official said the new support price will assure an adequate supply of wholesome milk to meet current needs.

Honey Loan Rate Lowered
The Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service will offer honey producers an average loan and purchase rate of their 1985 production, 0.5 percent per pound less than in 1984.

Gennin said rates for extracted honey range between 68.5 and 53.5 cents per pound, depending on color and class. The loan level represents 60 percent of the April 1985 adjusted parity price of $1.087 cents per pound.

"Farmers may obtain loans on 1985-crop honey stored in eligible containers, on or off farms. They have until January 31, 1986 to request loans that will mature April 30, 1986," Gennin said.

Loan and purchase rates for extracted table honey in 60-pound or larger containers are: 68.5 cents for light amber, and 64.5 cents for extra light amber, 59.5 cents for light amber, and 53.5 cents per pound for other table and non-table honey.

Producers who wish honey price support should contact the Pearl River-Hancock County ASCS Office before January 31, 1986.

Used by permission; all rights reserved by DATE, St. Louis, Mo.

QUESTION The average smoker's life expectancy, when compared with the average non-smoker's life expectancy, is estimated to be reduced by:

- 3 years
- 6 years
- 9 years
- 12 years

ANSWER—According to life insurance underwriters, the cost of smoking in terms of mortality generally assumes a decrease in life expectancy by 2 - 15 years or more, depending on the amount smoked, age when one starts to smoke, and amount of inhalation. On the average, smokers die 9 years younger than non-smokers. This has been calculated to be a reduction of life expectancy of about 14 minutes per cigarette smoked.

Correct Answer - c.

QUESTION—Over 500 different chemical compounds have been identified in tobacco smoke. Some of these chemical agents are relatively harmless, but many are definitely hazardous to one's health if ingested systematically. Which of these deadly poisons are found in tobacco smoke?

- Carbon monoxide
- Arsenic
- Cyanide
- All of the above

ANSWER—A few of the most hazardous gases in tobacco smoke are carbon monoxide, ammonia, hydrogen cyanide, hydrogen sulfide, methane, methyl chloride, and formaldehyde.

Some of the more notable particulates which form as tars, include alcohols, phenols, acids (formic, acetic, benzoic), aldehydes, arsenic, cyanide, and the principle alkaloid, nicotine.

Correct answer - d.

From The Governor's Office

Gov. Bill Allain

GOVERNMENT BUDGETING NEEDS REFORM NOW

State taxing and spending policies received a great deal of attention from the 1985 Legislature, and I believe we came a long way in making the public and legislators aware that some changes need to be made soon in our philosophical approach to the state budget.

As lawmakers grappled during the long hours of debate over the teacher pay bill, they searched for alternative means of raising taxes, away from the usual sales tax increase that this state has depended on for a quick fix to inflate state budgets in times of economic turmoil.

This session, though, many of the legislators said we need to take a careful look at the state budget in future years—both in the area of raising the revenues (taxing) and in how we spend those tax dollars.

I am hopeful that the 1986 Legislature will be the session of budget reform.

Before I outline some of the matters that should be reviewed by next year's Legislature in budget preparation, once again I want to remind you that the Governor's Office has a study group working on recommendations in the fields of taxing and spending.

This group has been working long hours for several months. There is no easy task, so they are taking a cautious approach before making recommendations.

In this way, they can understand the massive state budget and the serious needs of the people of Mississippi.

Many observers expected this group to make instant recommendations to the Governor, but I am very pleased that they are exercising all the care necessary to the task before them.

When I receive their recommendations, I know they will be based on the best study and judgement available to these citizens.

We will be making specific recommendations to the 1986 Legislature in the area of budget reform. Already we know that the next session of the Legislature will face an increase in state spending of a minimum of $61 million, just based on previous legislative action.

First, the state is committed to raise $35 million for early childhood education. This was included in the Education Reform Act of 1982, and we intend to see it implemented.

Secondly, the Legislature this year promised public schoolteachers another $1,000 in raises next year, which will cost the state $26 million.

So, you see, before the session even starts, that's $61 million more than the last budget, without any new programs or increases in other areas of state government or any other salaries than teachers'.

To deal with the growing state budget, it's time to stop and look hard at first our revenues. We have depended for too long on taxes that are too fluid, too fluctuating.

It's hard to build a state budget on taxes that have a degree of uncertainty as to their constant in-flow. We need a stable tax base that represents an equity for all taxpayers. We need taxing methods that will continue the slow economic growth that we are starting to experience in this state.

This does not mean that we need tax increases; we need a new philosophy about taxing. We also need a new philosophy about spending. With limited money available, we need spending priorities.

Agencies that receive state money must be required to justify every penny they receive—not just the new money they receive each year.

There should be no question that any state tax dollar given to an agency is necessary and can be spent in no better way for the good of the people.

We will be discussing these ideas in greater detail later this summer as we prepare specific recommendations for revenue and spending reforms.

But none of these changes can occur without strong public support, and I will be calling on the people of Mississippi to help us rethink the state budget.

HOUSE VETERANS AFFAIRS COMMITTEE

By Rep. G.V. (Sonny) Montgomery

The Wounds are Healing

It has been said many times—war does not end with ceasefire. Vietnam was no exception. In the years following the war, controversy remained. Vietnam veterans worked to readjust to a society that found it difficult to understand what they had been through, what they had done. Most were successful.

May 7 marks the 10th anniversary of the official end of the Vietnam era. It comes at a time when the psychological wounds of the Vietnam era are beginning to heal. Events of recent years have added much to the healing process.

In November of 1982, there was a belated and much-needed thank you performed on the Mall in Washington—the Vietnam Veterans Memorial, 58,022 names on a black granite wall attesting to the high price of war, was dedicated. Last November, a statue of Three Fightingmen was added and the Memorial became National Monument. On Memorial Day 1984, a serviceman of the Vietnam War was laid to rest with his comrades from previous wars at the Tomb of the Unknowns.

I'm proud to say that, due to the nonpartisan efforts of the Committee on Veterans' Affairs and the House of Representatives, there is now a comprehensive benefits program that recognizes the experiences, the contributions, and the special needs of the Vietnam-era veteran.

The program includes: treatment for exposure to herbicides and a disability allowance for certain conditions associated with that exposure; readjustment counseling; small business loans; increased job training and job placement assistance, including a landmark program that marks the first time employers have been paid directly to hire and train veterans; special consideration for Vietnam-era veterans seeking federal employment (this program, the Veterans' Readjustment Appointment Authority, has provided employment opportunities for more than 200 thousand Vietnam-era veterans); GI Bill education benefits; and post-traumatic stress research and treatment.

In addition, the Veterans' Administration's efforts in carrying out Congressional mandates have been tremendous. Here are the facts:

—The VA has assisted more than 6.5 million, or more than two-thirds of all Vietnam-era veterans, in receiving education benefits.

—Approximately 600 thousand Vietnam-era veterans receive monthly compensation checks for service-connected disabilities and over 21 thousand receive pensions for severe disabilities incurred after discharge.

—From 1981 through 1983 alone, the VA guaranteed $14.1 billion in GI

PASCAGOULA: ONE COMMUNITY'S PRIDE

While I was in my hometown of Pascagoula over Congress' traditional Easter District Work Period, I witnessed a new sense of community spirit and pride that has sprung from Pascagoula's determination to become the homeport of the U.S.S. Wisconsin surface battleship group.

In conjunction with a Navy team's final inspection of the city prior to the Navy's announcement in June of the new homeport, I saw my neighbors in a unified cleanup campaign painting their homes, mowing and raking their lawns and clearing vacant lots. On one occasion when I drove from my home to Biloxi, I counted up to 35 new flags fluttering from Pascagoula houses.

I am very proud of my hometown of Pascagoula and of Jackson County and the State of Mississippi for the way they have pitched in to support our effort to get a Naval battleship homeport in Mississippi.

It is a classic example of how the local community, the county and the state can work together. Local officials and civic leaders have made a tremendous contribution toward making Pascagoula very competitive for this homeport.

The State of Mississippi has been very helpful in providing the assurance that funds will be available to build an access road from the Jackson County mainland to Singing River Island and providing the bond issue authority for the dredging that will be involved.

I think that we have a shot at getting the U.S.S. Wisconsin battleship group to base in Mississippi. It's tough competition, but I think that we have done a good job in making our proposal viable.

We have many assets, not the least of which are the location of Ingalls Shipyard, the Port of Pascagoula's proximity to "deep water" and the quality of life we enjoy in Jackson County. Our school systems and educational structure are excellent.

My visits with Navy Secretary John Lehman and the Navy inspection team which visited Pascagoula over the Easter holidays give me reason to believe that Pascagoula ranks in the top three among the six sites now being considered.

I want Pascagoula to be No. 1 in the Navy's homeporting competition. But regardless of whether we are, I am gratified to be part of a community that already is No. 1 because it has pulled together in a concerted effort to be the best.

THE PEOPLE'S BUSINESS

Mississippi Economic Council

MISSISSIPPI'S FINEST TEACHERS

How do you identify the finest school teachers in Mississippi? There is a way.

Some 75 public and private school teachers were identified a few days ago as the finest Mississippi has to offer in education. They have been identified as Mississippi's best teachers by their students.

Occasion for the identification of these teachers came at the annual membership meeting of the Mississippi Economic Council. The council, the state's largest organization of business and professional leaders, has sponsored for 20 years now a program known as STAR, actually, the Student-Teacher Achievement Recognition Program. The program is designed to encourage academic achievement among high school students and recognize teachers who have had positive impact on those students. More than 325 public and private high schools across the state take part each year in the STAR Program.

STAR Students are selected in participating schools on the basis of American College Test scores and senior scholastic averages. STAR Students then select their own STAR Teachers.

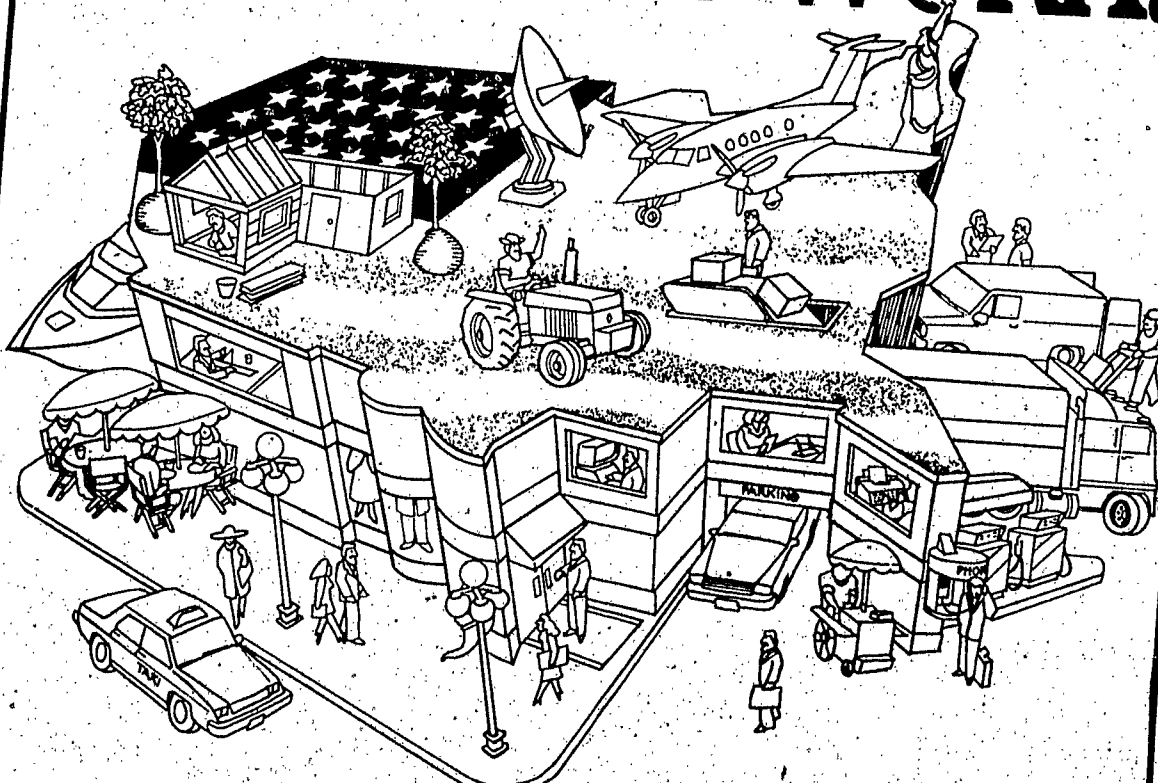

The council recognized the approximately 75 STAR Teachers at its membership meeting who have been selected as STAR Teachers by their students for as many as five years.

Then, the council announced the establishment of a STAR Teacher Hall of Fame, with membership in the Hall of Fame limited to teachers who have been recognized as STAR Teachers for as many as ten years.

Three Mississippi teachers were inducted into the Hall of Fame at the MEC meeting. They deserve special acclaim. Those three are Mrs. Helen Davis Perry of Brooksville, Mrs. Ouida Ross Reeves of Sardis, and Mrs. Alice McCallum of Tylertown.

In a day when Mississippians are concerned about education and concerned about the quality of instruction, it is good to know that our students are helping to identify the best we have in Mississippi's classrooms. Take the time to identify the STAR Teachers in the community and express your gratitude and appreciation.

Homemaker clubs to be honored this week

By Karen L. Moore
Mississippi Cooperative Extension Service

May 5-11 is National Extension Homemaker Club Week. During the week, Mississippi members will highlight programs and projects they provide to their local communities.

During the past year the local clubs have participated in several community service projects including donations of clothing to the battered women's shelter and serving cookies weekly at the Hancock County Welcome Center.

Community work done by Hancock County Homemaker clubs in the past year includes a weekly program presentation at a local nursing home by the Crafty Club and work with the Gulf Coast Mental Center by the SoSews.

The purpose of homemaker clubs is to improve the quality of family living. Information on food and nutrition, clothing, housing, family resource management and child and family development is provided by the Mississippi Cooperative Extension Service.

Extension homemaker clubs were organized at the state level in 1922. The first club, Sunny Hill Home Demonstration Club, began in 1917 in Pike County. A national organization of clubs began in 1936.

Extension homemaker clubs were first known as home demonstration clubs because their activities were skill-oriented. The clubs were modeled after youth clubs, now called 4-H, that taught children correct ways to grow fruits and vegetables and to preserve them. The adults decided they wanted to learn also.

"It was necessary to teach these skills because people were very poor and isolated. All families would not have canning equipment at home so they would come together to preserve their vegetables. Making mattresses and pillows was also taught," said Deborah Harris, Extension program specialist for homemaker clubs.

The Extension home demonstration agent, now called the county home economist, taught the club members.

Today people are less isolated and have more resources. Homemaker club programs have become more educational and less skill-oriented. The county home economist provides programs ranging from planning a balanced diet to disciplining children.

In addition to the educational part of homemaker clubs, the clubs are very active in their communities.

In Jackson the Sundowners Club, which is made of working women, plans to make color-coordinated drapes and bedspreads for the new Ronald McDonald House; The Ronald McDonald House is a home-away-from-home for parents of children seriously ill in the hospital.

DeSoto County homemaker members created a community emergency fund to help indigent patients at a nursing home. Their fund paid for medical care that prevented amputation of an elderly man's leg. They also purchased shoes for an elderly woman.

These DeSoto County members also held a luncheon featuring only rice and water to dramatize the problem of world hunger. Proceeds from the event went to Bangladesh where missionaries will buy rice seed and will teach the people to become self-sufficient.

The Magnolia Misses Club made up of women who work part-time, of Ridgeland, collects money for and helps with charitable causes such as the American Cancer Society and the Red Cross.

The Caledonia Homemaker Club near Columbus, revitalized their village and sponsored a drive to build an 1800s-style gazebo in the park.

"Now our town has more pride. People in the area know where Caledonia is now," said Kit Thompson, president of the club.

The Hodgepodge Club in the Columbus area, each year checks school children for the disease scoliosis. Twenty-five children have been referred to doctors for treatment of the disease.

The Homemaker Hamlet Club made up of working women, of Columbia, donated money toward a $1,500 communication unit worn on an elderly person's wrist to allow the elderly to live at home. Should the person need help, the hospital is notified. The club sponsors one elderly person by paying the monthly rental fee.

The membership of homemaker clubs is a diverse group. Adults of all ages, both blacks and whites, are members. Most of the members are women.

Many members are full-time homemakers but a growing group of the members work part-time and full-time. Their occupations range from clerks to teachers to managers.

Gulf Coast professionals mark Mental Health Month

Gulf Coast Mental Health Center has joined with the other 620 members of the National Council of Community Mental Health Centers and mental health agencies nationwide is observing May as Mental Health Month.

Along with other community mental health centers, GCMHC is using the theme "Mental Health: More Than A Trivial Pursuit" to emphasize the importance of mental wellness and to encourage the community to learn more about the services in Harrison, Hancock, Pearl River and Stone counties.

GCMHC is planning a variety of activities to celebrate Mental Health Month, including a Child Safety Fair on May 18 at the Hancock Plaza; a community workshop on Divorce, Step-Parenting, and Single Parenting on May 23 at the West Side Community Center, which is co-sponsored by the Mental Health Association of Harrison County; and a "Wellness Week" promotion May 6-10, which is co-sponsored by the Long Beach YMCA.

More information on any of these activities may be obtained by calling the GCMHC at 863-1132.

In commenting on the observance, Dr. G. Kinsey Stewart said, "Mental Health Month provides us the opportunity to focus public attention on the mental health needs of our community."

The theme, "Mental Health: More Than A Trivial Pursuit," reminds us as individuals that as we learn more about mental health, we are better able to choose lifestyles that promote mental wellness," Dr. Stewart explained.

"Further, it will help us remember that we as communities must take an active role to assure that we and our neighbors have access to quality mental health services where we live."

Bay High's Paul wins VFW essay contest

EDITOR'S NOTE: Following is the text of George Paul's winning essay in the Voice of Democracy Essay Contest sponsored by Veterans of Foreign Wars Post No. 3253, Bay St. Louis.

MY PLEDGE TO AMERICA
When I look at the American flag I am reminded that the flag is not just a piece of cloth but a symbol of the blood, sweat, and tears that have gone into making our country the great democracy it is today.

We all know of the many people who have worked to secure the joys of democracy. Let us remember.

It is 1735: John Peter Zenger, editor and publisher of the New York Weekly Journal, is arrested for writing an article sharply criticizing the British governor.

At his trial the jury finds him not guilty thus winning the first major victory for freedom of the press in the American colonies.

This decision paved the way for the First Amendment to our constitution.

GEORGE PAUL

It is 1776: As a result of the Declaration of Independence, the colonies are at war with Britain.

Throughout the war, Revolutionary soldiers face many trying situations.

However, they are comforted by the reading of Thomas Paine's booklet, "Common Sense." His words reassure them and give them strength to continue their fight for freedom. When the fight is over, the world experiences the birth of the greatest nation ever.

The United States of America.

It is 1863: Abe Lincoln's Emancipation Proclamation seeks an end to slavery and sparks a war which pits brother against brother, family against family.

As the Civil War ends so does slavery. The Union and the Confederacy are once again united—never to be separated again.

It is 1920: Susan B. Anthony finally has the right to vote. It has been a long struggle but now all of the tears and troubles seem worthwhile. Largely because of the work of Susan B. Anthony and others like her, 64 years later a woman will run for the Vice-Presidency of our country.

It is 1963: Tears stream down the faces of thousands as they listen to Martin Luther King's plea for equality. His voice rings through the air and makes a dream come true—equality for all people regardless of color or creed.

Today you ask me my pledge to America. My pledge is simply to be an informed citizen,—to know the important issues in my community, state and country and to act on the issues help,—help the political party of my choice,—or run for an elected office to fight injustices wherever they arise.

In short to continue in the tradition of John Peter Zenger, Thomas Paine, Abe Lincoln, Susan B. Anthony, Martin Luther King and others: You ask how can I accomplish this? By simply letting my voice become the voice of these great Americans—the voice of democracy and its everlasting joys.

Pass teacher listed among state six best

Six of the best teachers in Mississippi, including Pass Christian High School's Linda Jordan, will be honored on the statewide ETV network at 9 p.m. Friday when the annual "Mississippi Awards" presentations are televised.

Lt. Gov. Brad Dye and Dave Dunaway, president of Mississippians for Educational Broadcasting (MEB), will present each teacher with a plaque on the program.

The teachers will be honored for the unique methods they've created for working with one of the most important teaching tools today—educational television.

Teachers who have integrated ETV into their curricula have to know which of thousands of programs may be useful to their students; select the appropriate programs based on their teaching objectives, then decide how to reinforce the information presented on the programs.

The very best teachers go beyond these steps: They call upon their own creativity to utilize instructional television. The "Mississippi Awards" are given each year to teachers whose use of instructional television has been deemed the best in the state.

The other 1985 Mississippi Award winners are JoAnn Duke of Anory Middle School, Jerry Wyatt of Brookhaven High School, Linda Lofton of Newton High School and Terry Young Meek of Webb-Swan Lake Elementary.

Pam Hunt of Starkville High School will be given the John K. Battersworth Award for individual initiative in using instructional television.

The teachers will be presented their awards at a televised banquet held in their honor at Jackson's Landmark Center. Jane Crater Hlatt, a member of the MEB board of directors, will host the one-hour program, which will include shots of the winners working with students.

The artichoke may be one of the most misunderstood vegetables.

Many people see it as a gourmet food that should be served on very special occasions. In reality, artichokes are a fun food that make themselves at home in just about any mealtime situation—from the most elegant sit-down dinner to a casual snack.

Globe artichokes are the large unopened flower buds of a thistle-like plant which are available year round. However, heaviest supplies are in the springtime, so this is an excellent time to become acquainted with this delectable vegetable.

The artichoke was first cultivated at Naples, Italy in the middle of the 15th century. Gradually, its culture spread to other sections of Europe. Artichokes were introduced into the United States in the early 1800's.

Artichokes are grown today in the mid-coastal regions of California and in the Mediterranean area. Most of the United States supply comes from California, where the cool, foggy, generally frost-free climate provides an ideal situation for growing artichokes.

The leaves of the artichoke are edible—at least the fleshy bottom ends. Each leaf has a hidden weapon—a tiny thorn in the tip. A considerate hostess will clip off these thorny ends with scissors before cooking.

By cutting the artichoke in half down the middle, all the portions are revealed. The small cone of petals is very tender and almost entirely edible. Beneath the cone is the choke or flower part that is inedible.

When eating an artichoke, cut away the choke with a knife and fork or simply pull the choke out. Under the choke is the meaty portion; the heart. This is entirely edible and delicious.

The size of an artichoke has little to do with quality or flavor. The most desirable is compact, plump, heavy in relation to size, somewhat globular and with fresh, fleshy, tightly-clinging green leaf scales. Allow one artichoke per serving or if very large, cut in half.

To prepare, cut the stem at the base and trim off the loose leaves at the bottom. Clip off the thorns at the tip of each leaf. To cook, stand upright in boiling salted water to which a little lemon juice has been added.

Cover and cook until leaf can be pulled easily from stalk or stalk can be pierced with a fork, 45 to 60 minutes. Drain and serve hot with a savory sauce. Sauce may be hot, melted butter with lemon juice; mayonnaise; hollandaise sauce or sour cream.

As a salad serve cooked, chilled artichoke with mayonnaise blended with lemon juice and prepared mustard.

Artichokes are fun to eat whole. Pull off petals one by one and dip the base or light colored end into the sauce. Eat only the tender part of the leaf by drawing it between the teeth; discard remaining less tender tip.

Continue until reaching the choke, the fuzzy portion that is not edible. Remove it with a knife and discard. Cut the remaining heart into bite-sized pieces with a fork, dip in sauce and eat.

Another flower food is fresh asparagus which is at its peak from mid-April through mid-May. During this time fresh asparagus can be served at a lower cost than canned cut asparagus.

While the texture and flavor of fresh asparagus are worth the time and cost, make a quick comparison by checking the cost per pound against prices for a one-pound can of asparagus.

Military payments considered taxable income include active duty pay, reserve training pay, reenlistment bonuses, armed services academy pay, amounts received by retired personnel serving as instructors in junior ROTC programs, lump-sum payments on separation or release from active duty, and military retirement pay based on age or length of service.

When reporting military retirement pay, taxpayers should not include in income the amount of reduction in retirement or retainer pay to provide a survivor annuity for a spouse or children under the Retired Serviceman's Family Protection Plan or the Survivor Benefit Plan.

Allowances that are not considered taxable income include subsistence, uniform, and quarters allowances, or the value of quarters or subsistence provided in kind to members of the armed forces, National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration and Public Health Service.

In addition, housing and cost-of-living allowances for the extra cost of quarters and subsistence while on permanent duty outside the United States are not included in income. This is true whether the allowances are paid by the U.S. government or by the government of the country in which a person is stationed.

Other expenses not included in taxable income include moving and storage expenses, family separation allowances provided because of certain overseas assignments, and forfeited pay.

More information concerning taxable and non-taxable military income is available free in IRS Publication 525, "Taxable and Non-taxable Income," which can be obtained by calling or writing most local IRS offices.

the central business district downtown or along US-90."

In order to attract more industry, the city must be willing to work with developers, Schulz said. He added that this has been a problem in the past.

"Bay St. Louis just doesn't work with developers. When the big money comes here, they close the door in its face," he commented.

Frankiewicz emphasized the continued maintenance of the city's roads, utilities and other facilities as an attraction for commercial development.

Schulz said he favors redeveloping the downtown area before commercial development of the beachfront and feels traditional divisions between residential beachfront and commercial beachfront areas should be respected.

Frankiewicz favored development of the commercial beachfront as it existed before Hurricane Camille.

Both candidates said they feel the development of a small craft harbor in the city is not a high priority, but favored development of beach recreation facilities.

"Our efforts will have to be concentrated on those areas we can really maintain," Frankiewicz cautioned.

Schools were an area where the candidates agreed in principle but disagreed as to how their ideas should be carried out.

Frankiewicz favored teacher incentive pay at the local level while Schulz said it should be a state matter.

In addition, Frankiewicz said he felt the cost of school administration could be trimmed through efficiency measures, making more money available for continued improvement of schools.

Schulz said he would like to see that basic subjects are re-emphasized in the city schools. In addition, he feels the schools could be improved through programs that would give educators more job security.

Both candidates agreed that city school board appointees should have children attending schools in the Bay St. Louis district.

When asked his views on utilities and streets, Schulz said he would like to investigate the issue of variations in the quality of city water further before addressing it, but said he feels utility and street repair are high priorities.

Frankiewicz said he feels the city needs a comprehensive program for drainage repair and continued improvements on the city gas system.

Other issues addressed included the possibilities of consolidating law enforcement and tax collection operations with the county.

In addition to questions submitted by the panel, the two candidates addressed questions submitted by the audience before making their closing statements.

the side yards of the house to be 11 feet wide rather than the standard 15 feet.

The board voted to recommend the denial of a request for a 15-foot rear yard variance for a lot on Whispering Pines Street. The request, made by Mr. and Mrs. Joe Viguerie, would have allowed an addition to a house on the lot, but the board voted to turn it down because the building does not conform to the present zoning ordinances.

The board also voted to change the time of its meetings from 4:45 p.m. to 5 p.m.

Tips to Taxpayers I R S

Income Varies for Military

Payments received as a member of a military service generally are taxable except for allowances, according to the Internal Revenue Service. Veterans' benefits under any law administered by the Veterans Administration are generally not taxable, however.

Military payments considered taxable income include active duty pay, reserve training pay, reenlistment bonuses, armed services academy pay, amounts received by retired personnel serving as instructors in junior ROTC programs, lump-sum payments on separation or release from active duty, and military retirement pay based on age or length of service.

When reporting military retirement pay, taxpayers should not include in income the amount of reduction in retirement or retainer pay to provide a survivor annuity for a spouse or children under the Retired Serviceman's Family Protection Plan or the Survivor Benefit Plan.

Allowances that are not considered taxable income include subsistence, uniform, and quarters allowances, or the value of quarters or subsistence provided in kind to members of the armed forces, National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration and Public Health Service.

In addition, housing and cost-of-living allowances for the extra cost of quarters and subsistence while on permanent duty outside the United States are not included in income. This is true whether the allowances are paid by the U.S. government or by the government of the country in which a person is stationed.

Other expenses not included in taxable income include moving and storage expenses, family separation allowances provided because of certain overseas assignments, and forfeited pay.

Timber Cruising Explained

Landowners who think a timber cruise means riding or walking through trees so they will know how much timber they have are wrong.

Some of our landowners think they can estimate their timber value by just looking at it while others think they get an accurate cruise when a prospective buyer tells them that he thinks it's worth.

The best way to define a cruise is as a systematic survey of forestland to find timber and estimate its quantity by species, products, size, quality and any other characteristics the landowner feels are important.

The reliability of a cruise depends on the sampling design and the accuracy of the measurements. Plot sampling and point sampling are the most common techniques.

A forester using line plot cruising will measure all trees within circular plots at predetermined distances along compass lines. They most often use the chain measurement to space plots and lines. A chain is a surveyor's measurement 66 feet long. Ten square chains are an acre.

Plotless cruising or point sampling or prism cruising is a similar technique but there are no fixed plots.

There are sampling points along the cruise lines. Sample points are similar to plot centers in plot cruising. The cruiser visits each point and rotates around the point to determine which trees will be sampled.

Sample trees are chosen depending on their size, distance from the sample point and the prism or angle gauge used. With the count and measurements of these sample trees, the cruiser can determine basal area, volumes of timber and number of trees per acre.

Accurate cruises require a lot of time and effort and good cruisers need experience as well as training to give consistently valid estimates.

Our landowners can get the best value by hiring a professional forester when timber needs to be cruised.

Choosing Soybean Varieties

Hancock County farmers should consider several factors before choosing a soybean variety that is best suited to their needs.

Many varieties are well adapted to Mississippi growing conditions. Although no single variety should be considered superior to all others, in some situations there are varieties that are better suited than others.

A study of the general characteristics along with disease, nematode and herbicide reactions should help farmers select varieties that will maximize production.

Remember that adequate lime and fertilizer combined with good management are essential to produce high yields of any variety.

Evaluate land and study yield performance at research stations with similar soil.

Don't totally abandon known varieties that are yielding well. Instead, switch to new ones shown by research to have advantages.

More information on herbicide, disease and nematode reactions, as well as yield comparisons, is available at our office.

SPACE FLIGHT

"Spaceflight," a series of four one-hour programs on the history of manned space flight—both American and Russian—produced by former Mississippian Blaine Baggett, can be seen at 8 p.m., Wednesdays, beginning May 8, on Mississippi ETV.

Baggett, originally from Horn Lake, is a graduate of Millsaps College and is a former continuity writer for Mississippi ETV and former creative director for the Public Broadcasting Service (PBS) in Washington. Baggett now owns his own communications company, Signature.

From the rocket plane that first broke the sound barrier to the touchdown of the shuttle "Columbia," the series chronicles humankind's achievements in reaching for the stars.

"We've been very fortunate in assembling an incredible array of people who were there," said Baggett. "We've interviewed some 40 key participants."

Senior Citizens Happenings

By Eve McDonald
Senior Citizen Month
We have lots of things going on this month. Hope all of you can participate in something special.

May 10, 17, 24 and 31: First trip to New Orleans to the French Quarter. We will be going every Friday this month. RSVP will be going with us on the 10, 17 and 24. These trips are filled, but we will take a waiting list.

May 6: Bay St. Louis Senior Citizen Club is having a Candidate Breakfast at the center. All candidates are invited to come and address the seniors and visit the center and eat a delicious breakfast.

The senior citizens in the area are invited to come also. The breakfast will be served from 8-9:30 a.m. and the candidates will speak about 9:30 a.m. Breakfast price, $1.50-$2 (large portion).

May 10: Gulfport Senior Citizens are sponsoring a Senior Olympics Day at Westside Community Center.

Some of the activities will be: Pokeno, checkers, dominoes, fast walk, dance, granny square croquet and others.

Call Rosine Jushaway at 467-9292 if you wish to attend. Lunch will be served as well as snacks—no charge.

May 11: All day picnic at Little Black Creek Water Park near Lumberton. This is a 15-county picnic and all senior citizens are invited to come to a bar-b-q chicken lunch free.

We will have one bus going and you can call for a ride. You may also drive up in your car. The time is 10 a.m.-1:30 p.m.

May 20: Birthday-games party. This will be at the center at 1:30 p.m. We have nice prizes from Danny's Fried Chicken, The Eatery, and the Bay St. Louis American Legion.

Princess Fahey also brings a gift to the seniors who have a birthday in April and May from Edmond Fahey

Funeral Home. Security Savings gives us a door prize and Peoples Federal Savings and Loan provides the cake. Thanks!

May 27: Center closed for Memorial Day.

Personal Care Aides
We have three new personal care aides who graduated from their 60 hours training course April 26. They are Mrs. Nancy Burr, Mrs. Ophelia Raboteau and James Widmark.

All of our graduates have been very delighted with their training and are now on the sitter list at our local hospital as well as at our office and at the employment office.

If you know of anyone who needs qualified and trained sitters, we sure can recommend our graduates.

Conferences
The two conferences I attended were certainly worthwhile. In San Francisco I marched in my first protest march! Several hundred marched against the proposed cuts to cost of living increases for Social Security recipients.

Social Security is not funded by the general fund. Cutting them does not cut the deficit. Social Security is funded from the Social Security Trust Fund and it is now in surplus! Up to now, that fund can only be used for Social Security.

Medicare already costs senior citizens more of their income percentage wise now than it did before Medicare. The Administration wants more from this group of people to spend on weapons to have more overkill.

How can you give cost of living increase (call it inflation rate) to defense and give them a three percent raise, raise legislators salaries (already very large, and heavy with additional pension funds) and cut the really vulnerable elderly? Who gave them pensions? They don't have waste in their budgets.

God's Design for the Home.

Part I

Many today seek to change God's design for the home. A few years ago certain people were using the news media to try to topple the idea of a husband-wife relationship.

According to this view, sexual encounters would involve no commitment on the sexual partners. A little experience revealed this so-called freedom did not bring the utopia they expected. Yet many are still trying this way to find happiness.

Those who pursue happiness are always pursuing. Happiness is found in the person satisfied with God's plan for his life. He does not look for things to bring him happiness. Pleasure is not a synonym for happiness.

When God had prepared the world for man, he created him. "And the Lord said, it is not good that man should be alone; I will make him a help meet for him." (Genesis 2:18)

The words "help" and "meet" are words that are ignored by many today.

"The expression indicates that the forthcoming helper was to be of similar nature to the man himself, corresponding by way of supplement to the incompleteness of his lonely being, and in every way adapted to be his co-partner and companion." (Pulpit Commentary, Vol. I, Pg. 28)

If the woman complements the man, it follows woman is incomplete without the man.

When God made woman, "The Lord God caused a deep sleep to fall upon Adam, and he slept; and He took one of his ribs, and closed up the flesh thereof; and the rib, which the Lord had taken from man made he a woman, and brought her unto the man. And Adam said, this is now bone of my bones, and flesh from my flesh; she shall be called woman, because she was taken out of man." (Genesis 2:21-23)

It is said woman was not taken from the head of man that she should rule over him nor from his feet that he should trample on her but under his arm that he should love and protect her.

The inspired apostle Paul commented, "For the man is not of the woman; but the woman of the man. Neither was the man created for the man; but the woman for the man." (1 Corinthians 11:8-9)

Too often today this divine relationship between God, Christ, man and woman is forgotten. Much of the turmoil and home break-up can be attributed to this refusal to accept God's word on this matter.

Adam and Eve were one. Adam and Eve were told by God; "Therefore shall a man leave his father and mother and shall cleave unto his wife: and they shall be one flesh. And they were both naked, the man and his wife, and were not ashamed." (Genesis 2:24-25)

This involves more than sexual oneness. Husband and wife are to establish an independent home.

Winn Dixie sales up seven percent

Winn Dixie sales for the 12 weeks ended April 3 totaled $1,847,617,000, an increase of $120,245,000, or 7 percent over the comparable period ended April 4, 1984.

For the 40 weeks ended April 3, 1985, sales totaled $5,928,323,000, an increase of $248,682,000, or 6.2 percent.

Net earnings for the 12 weeks were $28,258,000 or $.69 per share, compared with $29,577,000 or $.73 per share last year.

For the 40 weeks net earnings were $77,822,000 or $1.90 per share as compared with $83,990,000 or $2.04 per share last year.

There were no gains on sales of securities and other assets during fiscal 1985 compared to $6 million gains during the second period of fiscal 1984.

President A. Dano Davis stated:

"Through aggressive merchandising and store upgrading, we continue our foundation for growth which we believe is on course. Fiscal 1985 will be the largest store opening program in the company's history. Earnings are being adversely affected initially due to higher depreciation and store opening expenses."

The company opened 71 new stores, enlarged or remodeled 60 stores and closed 38 stores, so far this fiscal year. In addition, the company presently has 69 new stores under construction.

Winn-Dixie has 1,264 stores in operation on April 3, 1985, compared with 1,225 last year.

Monthly dividends of 14 cents per share, a 7.7 percent increase over the prior year, were declared on April 3, 1985.

DOWN HOME

by DARLENE UNDERWOOD
Hancock County Extension Home Economist

WHY THEY DON'T READ

John will do just about anything to avoid reading a book and his mother says he's always been that way. She has given up dragging him to the library to bring home a stack of books.

Some young people do not read because they lack reading skills. They missed out in their early school years and have never caught up. John is the typical poor reader.

Mary, age 14, never reads either; but her reasons for not reading include lack of time, too many after school activities, and dozens of friends.

In Mary's case her school actually encourages her not to read. That's not to say her teachers don't encourage her.

Rather the school has so many activities that Mary is really short on time and her reading suffers. Mary also has much written homework that takes up what time she has available.

Sue and Joe on the other hand do not belong to school clubs. Because of their families' financial situation, both work after school. This takes about all their free time.

The final reason none of the above teenagers reads is shared by all of them. Not one of their parents read in the home! Not one young person can remember when a parent was seen reading a book and not one boy or girl has a good attitude toward reading.

Developing a good attitude about reading begins in the home. It's one positive step a parent can take to encourage a child to read, even a teenager.

Clearly many of the reasons young people have for not reading can't be changed overnight. But each of those teenagers, over time can begin to develop a love for books. If the parent reads, chances are very good his child will like to read.

The parent who reads will have books and magazines around the home and the topics discussed will be varied. It's hard to find a teenager whose curiosity and interest is not aroused by a lively discussion about some current event or book. At least the teen will have an opinion!

Don't expect your adolescent's reading to increase dramatically just because you change what you do or don't do. You must keep in mind the reasons he doesn't read and the number of years he has not been reading. Regardless of the reason and his age, he can still develop a good attitude about books and reading.

If you happen to have allowed your reading to lapse or disappear, make the time to read. It's the best way to get your teenager to read.
